Sathya Sai Youth

01

ZONE 1

Sathya Sai youth in Canada, the USA, and countries of the West Indies took part in SAI90, a programme of nine initiatives encompassing Service, Adoration, and Inspiration (SAI), in honour of Bhagawan's 90th Birthday. Conducted over a nine-month period, March–November 2015, the nine initiatives included service projects, SAIx (talk shows), musical offerings, #Sai90 (social media), Sai Olympics, an art/short story/poetry competition, self-transformation activities, Capture the Love (Sai90 activities), and Journey Forward (youth activities beyond 2015).

Youth across Zone 1 also participated in many other projects, including helping a bone marrow donation organisation, spreading joy by singing Christmas carols, providing sports therapy for autistic children, mentoring distressed children, leading a textbook drive for African universities, and providing medical supplies for earthquake victims in Nepal. Youth in Suriname participated in a 4 km Walk for Values in October 2015. In addition, youth escorted members of the Blind Welfare Association of Trinidad and Tobago to Mayaro beach for a fun-filled day near the sea.

ZONE 2A

Youth of Zone 2A focused on their personal spiritual development and engaged in service to children. In Mexico, 50 children and 15 youth participated in a summer course titled "With Love for the World" during July 2015. The course promoted care for Mother Earth through the practice of human values. Mexican youth also delivered food and blankets to the General Hospital in Coatzacoalcos during November 2015.

In El Salvador, youth provided lessons in human values to community members. Sathya Sai youth escorted urban children on excursions to the countryside every month, where they played games and taught meditation, care for the environment, and how to make imitation spider webs. In El Salvador, the youth held a meeting in August 2015 to deepen their spiritual knowledge and discuss the work of the SSIO. In Guatemala, the youth gathered in February 2016 to learn about the life and works of Sathya Sai Baba and the functions of the SSIO. In Panamá, Sathya Sai youth offered classes in human values.

ZONE 4

Sathya Sai youth of Nepal provided loving care to the victims of earthquakes that devastated the mountainous region in April 2015. They provided shelter at Sathya Sai centres to those rendered homeless and participated later in construction of houses for earthquake victims.

Sathya Sai youth also organised campaigns to clean up the river Bagmati, which was appreciated by the Government of Nepal.

In Indonesia and Malaysia, Sathya Sai youth reached out to other young adults to educate them on human values and on healthy living through abstaining from alcohol and smoking. The “Cure Care” project by the youth has helped ex-convicts quit the use of drugs.

Sathya Sai youth from several countries, including medical professionals, organised medical camps across the Zone. Every month, the youth of Philippines participated in local healthcare initiatives. Malaysian youth rendered loving service to animals and, in one instance, rescued 50 abandoned dogs. In Thailand, Sathya Sai youth helped provide meals to the residents of slums and to refugees. In Lao PDR, Sathya Sai youth were instrumental in setting up a new Sathya Sai School in Vientiane and also rendered loving services to the blind. In Singapore, youth organised a “Games Day” where human values were taught to local children through sports and games.

ZONE 5

Hong Kong youth conducted a series of “Educare English Enhancement” programmes at a local primary school. They also entertained residents of a home for the mentally challenged, and distributed “Sai Seva” packets of dry food items and hot vegetarian meals to the homeless. As part of the global Serve the Planet initiative, a smartphone “app” was created on the five human values taught by Sathya Sai Baba. Developed in cooperation with senior SSIO members, the app illustrates the human values through stories, inspirational messages and songs, making it easy for the user to appreciate and practise these principles.

Three Zone 5 youth graduated from the first SSIYLP in November 2015.

In Taiwan, Sathya Sai youth conducted SSEHV classes on weekends for Chinese students, holding discussions in Mandarin. The youth also participated in a Walk for Values in May 2015 at Fu Riverside Park.

In Japan, young adults initiated work on their second book, Sai Words, to spread the Sathya Sai’s teachings, and also contributed to a zonal newsletter.

06

ZONE 6

French youth participated regularly in service activities, providing clothing, food, and supplies to about 20 families in need and to the homeless in Paris. They also held monthly meetings, at which they conducted interactive workshops on various spiritual topics.

The youth wing of Zone 6 participated in the Pre-World Conference in Italy in May 2015. They conducted study circles, organised bhajans and a talent show, and gave talks on spiritual transformation.

The young adults led the Serve the Planet initiative in 2015 under the theme, "Human Values for Nation Building," with Zone 6 youth taking leadership roles.

Youth from eight countries in Zone 6 also took part in a global musical offering, "One Sai, One World." Additionally, five young adults, from Croatia, France, Slovenia, Spain, and Switzerland, graduated from the inaugural SSIYLP in 2015.

ZONE 7

Every month, Sathya Sai youth in the UK provided services to about 100 homeless people. In Poland, youth prepared and distributed food packages to the homeless in Warsaw. In Latvia, young adults prepared 108 Christmas packets to bring cheer to homeless women.

Twenty Sathya Sai youth from Germany participated in a national service–summer course in Hohenprießnitz, where they helped to renovate a centre for the elderly. In Latvia, youth organised a Human Values Day in a park, with the help of other SSIO members.

Hungarian youth, working with others, painted about 600 square metres of walls with fresh, colourful paint at a centre for treatment of drug addiction. They also visited a home for people with physical or mental challenges to bring cheer and joy.

In the Netherlands, youth in Amsterdam provided services to the residents of a home for the elderly. Czech youth, along with children, cleaned up a public forest area. In March 2016, Sathya Sai youth volunteers from the UK offered face-painting during a walk for charity event.

During 2015, the YOUnity band recorded numerous spiritual songs. Their second music album, “Back to Self,” is scheduled for release in late 2016.
