themed Go Green.

In conjunction with the walk, some 500 participants crowded the SS3 residential court to celebrate Mother's Day in the most unusual way by sending messages of love to mother earth. Children, youths and adults from the Sai organisations as well as local public joined hands to send out strong messages on the importance of tree planting, reducing waste and recycling to save the environment.

Participants not only completed a 2.5km walk in a highly charged environment, they gave out young plants to passers-by and residents who came out to watch the 45-minute procession that was led by a recycling float. The event also saw excellent performance by a group of youngsters who created music out of tin cans and drums, a simple yet powerful exhibition displaying the negative and positive impact mankind has on the environment and several other performances by children and youths. Best dressed participants were also generously awarded.

Among other highlights during the event were the free health screening, organ donation pledge, value games and tree planting.

We have to remind the government officers & workers to replant a tree when they chop down one tree too.

MBSA must watch out for private rubbish disposal lorries to cover thier lorries while travelling on the road, many plastics, papers, carton boxes, foams etc all flying out from their lorry. It is not our people who throw rubbish on the roads.
